Road exchange nears completion despite protests of Snowdon Township Reeve

A last ditch effort to block the transfer of the Vankoughnet Road to the province in exchange for portion of Highway 519, which would come under county control, appears to have failed. The effort was made by Snowdon Reeve Bob Vick, Deputy Reeve John Francis and drew support from Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Lloyd Walker.

A motion proposing that the trade between the county and the province be stopped until the terms could be renegotiated, was defeated at the Wednesday meeting of County Council. The rescinding motion had been put forward with the suggestion that the trade could be renegotiated to keep the lower portion of Highway 519 which runs through Snowdon Township in the provincial highway system.

Snowdon Reeve Bob Vick has argued in the past that making the Highway a county road would have a serious impact on the economy of his township. He said that tourists would avoid the route if it was not marked on the map as a provincial highway. He also suggested that the jobs of the MTC road crew based in Snowdon Township could be in jeopardy if the trade was allowed to proceed. Vick has also said the winter maintenance would not be up to MTC standards under county control.

The Snowdon reeve took his case to Toronto recently, meeting with deputy minister of Transportation and Communications Harold Gilbert. The deputy minister, in a letter to the council following the meeting said that if the county attempted to change the terms of the trade, all portions of the agreement would be frozen and a new agreement would have to be negotiated.

Vick questioned why the trade was taking place at all. He told the Wednesday meeting that both the county and the province had indicated to him that both sides were not pushing the trade. Warden Murray Fearrey said the first suggestion of a trade came from MTC minister James Snow and the vote taken last year by the county council indicated that the other Reeves of the county were in favour of it.

In fact, a portion of the agreement has already been completed. The Order in Council (Cabinet) assuming the Vankoughnet Road as a provincial highway has been passed with minor technicalities standing in the way of the exchange of responsibility between the MTC and the county roads department. Both bodies have made plans to administer the new sections this winter, the time when the greatest attention is given to roads. The Vankoughnet will be Highway 118 in the provincial scheme.

John Francis, told the council he voted in favour of rescinding the original motion in an effort to have the trade re-examined. He suggested that it might be possible for the MTC to take over the Vankoughnet Road without them dropping their control of Highway 519 through Snowdon Township.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Walker backed Snowdon stand saying he felt the change would reduce the amount of traffic using Highway 35 and 121 and could have adverse impact on this part of the county.

Keith Tallman, reeve of Monmouth Township appeared to be expressing the feelings of the other councillors when he commented that the county had put a great deal of effort into the trade. "To rescind that original motion would now be a step backward." He suggested those in opposition should consider the benefits to the county as a whole, not just one particular area.

The other members of the council back that feeling with a recorded vote which saw Snowdon representatives Vick and Francis and Minden reeve Lloyd Walker outvoted by their counterparts from the other townships in the county.

However, before the meeting adjourned, a motion was passed asking MTC to re-examine the transfer of the Snowdon portion after the trade was completed. This motion drew the general support of the council.

Hugh Nichol, left, was the winner of the first annual Times Autumn Open golf tournament held Sunday at the Haliburton Highlands Golf Course. Hugh led the field of 20 golfers with an 18 hole total of 71. Keith Stephenson of the course host, presented Hugh with his trophy. The golfers enjoyed a hot meal at the Royal View Inn following the tournament. For more details on the day's fun, see page 9.

County applies for dump study - program previously rejected

Cultural Centre opens Saturday

Finishing touches were being done this week as staff and volunteers prepare for the official opening of the Minden Library and Cultural Centre. The log structure, on Bobcaygeon Road North, will be opened Saturday afternoon.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins is expected to officiate at the ceremonies along with local politicians and representatives from other townships in the county.

The building has been unofficially open for a week and a half as the library books have already been transferred to the new location.

On opening day, visitors will have an opportunity to tour the premises and see the municipality's collection of Andre Lapine paintings in the gallery and common room.

The new structure will meet a number of needs in the community. The township's library has already transferred its operation to the new location. In addition, a gallery for displaying local art collections and travelling exhibits, is also included. A common room at the rear of the building will be available for meetings of various groups including the Women's Institute, Horticultural Society, senior citizens, travelling library shows and others.

An invitation has been extended to the general public to share in the opening day ceremonies. The dedication is scheduled for 3 p.m. Refreshments will be available.

Haliburton County council has agreed to apply to the Ontario Ministry of Environment for a study of potential dump sites in the county. The study was the same one the council rejected in February 1980.

The change in heart did not come easily last Wednesday as a recorded vote was required before the councillors' opinion was known. Ten members voted in favour of the application while seven were opposed. (Two members of the council, Stanhope Deputy Reeve Elgin Stouffer and Glamorgan Deputy Reeve Bob McCausland were absent.) The motion was carried by the simple majority, and was more than endorsed under the weighted voting system which gives the more heavily populated municipalities more than a single vote per representative.

Details of the study were presented to the councillors again by Frank Reinholz of MOE. He said the investigation would be carried out on a county-wide basis. The results would identify potential dump sites which the municipalities could use in planning for the future. "For example," Reinholz commented, "if an area had been identified as a good site for waste disposal, council would want to stop any residential development which might take place adjacent to the property."

The MOE spokesman noted that the municipality would be responsible for using the information gathered by the study.

He said a study just being completed in the Muskoka area is expected to cost $27,000. Under the study program, the provincial government covers 50% of the costs.

Stanhope Reeve Jim Harrison questioned whether the study would be the first step toward a centralized garbage system. Reinholz said the municipalities would still retain control over the development of the sites.

The MOE spokesman stated that the study in itself would not mean a dump could be established in a given location. "The study will just identify potential sites," he said. Further study would be needed before any one location could be opened as a landfill site.

Warden Murray Fearrey, a proponent of the study, said the council "should show we are concerned about the environment". He noted that the county at this point is making application to be included in the MOE funding for the study in 1982 and that is no assurance that the application would be accepted.

Those opposed to the study suggested that it was money that could be better spent elsewhere in the system and, "We're being studied to death by the provincial government".

However, on the recorded vote the motion to apply to the ministry was approved. Those voting in favour of the study were Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve and Deputy Reeve Lloyd Walker and Doug Pritchard, Bicroft Improvement District chairman Meredith Amm, Dysart et al Reeve and Warden Murray Fearrey, Lutterworth Reeve and Deputy Reeve Ron Gambell and Glynne Lewis,

Black Bear Rally becomes night run - no problems reported by OPP or MNR

The forest access roads north of Minden resounded with a different sound this past weekend as the Canadian Automobile Sports Clubs held the Black Bear Car Rally which had been scheduled to take place this spring. The event, originally planned for a day run, was held Saturday evening, ending at the Minden arena at three o'clock Sunday morning.

The change from a day to night rally was necessitated because Saturday also marked the opening of the small bird season in the area and the roads used for the rally are also popular hunting roads.

Organizers report that the event came off without any problems. These sentiments were echoed by Sergeant Bill Bailey of the Minden OPP. He described the group as "well-organized and very safety conscious. 'I have nothing but good to say about the way the rally was organized,'" Bailey commented. A spokesman for the Ministry of Natural Resources agreed with that assessment.

When the rally had first been proposed earlier this year, certain portions were to be run over public roads. Concern was raised for safety at that time and permission to hold the event was withdrawn. These problems appear to have been overcome and, according to the MNR spokesman, there is no reason why the rally can't be held here again.

Thirty drivers took part in the event and Bjorn Anderson of London, Ontario, drove his Toyota Corolla to a narrow victory in the rally, sixth event in the Interprovincial Rally Championship. Anderson, with co-driver Doug Ort, also of London, covered the 65 kilometres of special stages (speed tests) on forest access roads north of Minden in 55 minutes and 51 seconds, 44 seconds faster than series leaders Randy Black of Mississauga, and Bob Lee of Milton, in a Datsun 510.

Third overall and winners of the production "B" category (stock engines over 1600 c.c.) were Niall Leslie of Mississauga, and Fred Baker of West Hill, in a Datsun 200SX. Leslie's time was 58:34.

In fourth position and winner of the Production "A" category (stock engines under 1600 c.c.) was Chris Castledine of Streetsville, with co-driver Gary "Sox" Satok of Toronto, Ontario, in their Honda Civic. Castledine covered the Special Stages in 1:01:53.

Thirty cars started the 180 kilometre event from the Minden Arena Saturday evening, with 21 reaching the finish back in Minden Sunday morning. Heavy rainfall just prior to the start made the forest roads extremely slippery, resulting in some off-road excursions, which eliminated a number of competitors.

Black still leads the overall standings with 121 points, followed by Castledine and Anderson who are tied with 106. Leslie leads the Production Class with 129 points in that division.

The next event in the series is the Muskoka Rally in Burke's Falls, Ontario October 17 - 18.

Eakins opposes aspects of human rights bill

Victoria-Haliburton MPP has taken a strong stand against new legislation introduced by the provincial government to strengthen the hand of investigators under the Human Rights Act. The local representative issued the following statement outlining his position.

"I and my colleagues have been vigorously opposed to a number of areas of Bill 7, An Act to Revise and Extend Protection of Human Rights in Ontario. Indeed many citizens from Victoria and Haliburton Counties have contacted me in this regard," Eakins said.

"The search and seizure powers in the proposed Bill are downright dangerous. The legislation as written would give the Human Rights Commission more power than the police. Bill 7 would allow members of the Human Rights Commission to enter any premises, except a home, seize documents without a warrant, and interrogate citizens without the presence of a lawyer.

"I and my colleagues in the Ontario Liberal Party believe that a warrant must be obtained prior to a search and an individual should be allowed to have a lawyer present. The need to prevent discrimination is very important, but we must not commit other violations in our eagerness to uphold human rights.

"I was impressed with the presentation of the Ontario Association of Police Chiefs, under the leadership of their President, Chief Jack Wales of Lindsay. It was this presentation that brought the Minister to the table to indicate that this particular section would be clarified and hopefully modified.

"The legislation as presently written must be changed considerably, and until this takes place, I will not be able to support the Bill. I am hopeful that the Minister will respond."

Road speed limit could take 18 months

Property owners along the Gull River who are hoping to see speed restrictions introduced for boat traffic will probably have to wait until the summer of 1983 before seeing any results. That was the opinion expressed by Ministry of Natural Resources Conservation Officer Alex Millar when he addressed the Lutterworth Township council on the matter Thursday evening.

Millar noted that even if the necessary paperwork was completed here by November of this year, the report would have to be forwarded to Toronto for approval from provincial authorities and then on to Ottawa for federal approval. "I have been told quite frankly by the people in Ottawa not to expect any response in anytime less than nine months," Millar said.

The MNR spokesman was attending the meeting to discuss two areas of concern for the council, the Gull River below Moore Lake and the river from the Anson, Hindon and Minden-Lutterworth border to the mouth at Gull Lake.

Cottagers at the south end have signed a petition seeking the reduced speed limit and a ban on water skiing in that portion of the river. Concern was expressed for the safety of other boaters and the erosion caused by the wake thrown up by the passing boats. A certain amount of opposition has grown to the limit in that area and a number of river and lake cottagers have questioned the validity of the request for a limit. The council appears however to be prepared to proceed with the matter.

Concern about the speed on the upper portion of the river has surfaced recently with the circulation of a petition by Don Davidson. He has gathered 135 signatures from property owners in Anson, Hindon and Minden as well as Lutterworth Township. The Minden council endorsed the request for the speed limit at a meeting September 9.

Councillor Bill Prentice, while in support of the need for a speed limit, suggested the council might receive complaints from boaters wanting to travel to Minden. "Six miles per hour (one of the suggested speed limits) is pretty slow," Prentice noted. He said some boats may not be able to maintain proper steering control at that speed. It was also pointed out that some boats create a heavier wake at a slower speed than when travelling at a moderate rate.

The imposition of the speed limit will also require an endorsement from a number of adjoining townships including Laxton, Digby and Longford since a portion of the property fronting on the lower portion of the river is in that municipality.

The Lutterworth Township

Council supports two year term

As indicated in a survey undertaken earlier this month by The Times, a majority of municipal politicians in Haliburton County do not favour a three term of office. The survey results were confirmed Wednesday at the monthly meeting of the county council.

Warden Murray Fearrey requested the councillors express their opinions on the proposal so that the county's stand on the matter can be forwarded to the provincial authorities.

The province had suggested that a three year term might be in order because of the complexities of running a municipality. The three year term has the endorsement of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

Dysart et al Deputy Reeve Harold Bannon was the only member of county council to express a strong opinion in favour of the three year term. He based his reasons on the cost of holding elections which he said amounted to $8000 to $10,000 in his municipality. Stretching the term to three years would help reduce that expense he claimed. The deputy reeve also noted that the elections cost the candidate a great deal of money as well.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Lloyd Walker said a two year term was adequate. He said the voters would have to wait too long to remove "duds" from the council if elections were held every three years.

Stanhope Reeve Jim Harrison also supported the two year term. He suggested that if a councillor is doing a good job he shouldn't have any problem when election time arrives every two years.

Monmouth Township reeve Keith Tallman questioned whether individuals would be willing to commit themselves to a three year term. "It is a long time," he commented, indicating that with an election every two years politicians have ample opportunity to assess whether their own future as elected officials.

Snowdon Deputy Reeve John Francis said the two year term was adequate, but he felt the public should show greater interest in the council council agreed to proceed with the application for the limit as well as a ban on water skiing in the lower section. Formal endorsement from abutting townships will be sought so the application can be sent on to Toronto for processing.

proceedings. "I think more people should make an effort to attend the meetings," he commented. These feelings were echoed by Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone Reeve Fred Baum.

County Warden and Reeve of Dysart et al, Murray Fearrey said two years was enough. He said one of the concerns in the city was the cost of the election which had to be borne by the candidates. "In rural Ontario there is no need to spend great amounts of money to be elected," he commented. "Candidates are free to set their own style of campaign."

A resolution "strongly opposing" the extension of the municipal term of office to three years will be forwarded to the province.

Charge follows mishap

A charge of failing to yield has been laid against a Milton man following an accident September 19. The mishap occurred at the intersection of Highway 35 and Horseshoe Lake Road 1.

Robert J. Lee, 30, of Milton was attempting to pull out onto Highway 35 from the sideroad when the collision took place. His vehicle was struck by one driven by Mark Thompson, 19, of Bracebridge. Thompson was travelling north at the time.

The Thompson vehicle sustained $2000 damage. The accident occurred at 2 p.m.

The investigating officer was Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Remember the saying "You don't have anything if you don't have your health". It's true.

Home support services elect new directorate

A new directorate for the Haliburton County Home Support Services was elected at the organization's annual meeting Friday at PineStone Inn. Heading the organization for the next two years will be Doris McCann of Kennis Lake, the individual who was instrumental in getting the support services underway in the county.

The annual meeting was an important one for the organization as it offered an opportunity for various members from throughout the county to meet and compare experiences. From the verbal reports offered by the various conveners, the wheels to meals, meals on wheels, friendly visiting and other programs supported by the organization have been enthusiastically received by the clients. In many cases the organizers report that the programs are at their limit or quickly approaching capacity.

Another important aspect of the Friday meeting was the passing of the organization's constitution. The document outlined the purposes of the group and the responsibilities of the officers and members.

The members were told that plans for the future include a volunteer workshop, a quarterly newsletter, exercise and swim programs for members and a possible bus trip.

Mary Wallace, co-ordinator for the service, reported to the meeting that the response to the recent request for volunteers had been very good. She told the members that over 50 individuals responded to the direct mail appeal and that inquiries were still coming in.

The appeal asked for volunteers who would be willing to help in the various programs sponsored by the organization.

The entire executive of the organization was returned for a two year term in the elections which preceded the close of the meeting. Assisting chairman Doris McCann will be vice chairman Alberta Maitland of Minden, second vice chairman Ivan Hunter of Gooderham, secretary Dorothy Robertson of Haliburton and treasurer Aileen Robertson of Gooderham. Other members of the executive include: Billy Shuyler of Blairhampton, Dean Hodgson of Carnarvon, Muriel Allport of Eagle Lake, Ileen Hunter of Gooderham, Emil Neimann of Haliburton, Lil Haight of Haliburton Lake, Gloria Lemieux of Minden, Victoria Agnew of Wilberforce, Ev Stata of West Guilford and Bessie Burk of Lochlin.

Everybody benefits

All of Haliburton County will benefit by having another provincial highway providing access to the area.

That is why the majority of county council was correct in rejecting any plan to rescind the original motion approving a trade of roads between the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications and the county. Under that agreement endorsed by last year's council, the Vankoughnet Road (now County Road number one) would become provincial Highway 118 linking Highway 11 at Bracebridge to Highway 35 at Carnarvon. The county road system would take on Highway 519 which cuts across Snowdon Township from Highway 121 to Haliburton Village and Highway 519 from Highway 530 to Redstone Lake.

Snowdon Reeve Bob Vick has led, virtually, a one-man fight to halt the trade based on the conviction that road services will be hurt in his township and the loss if a numbered provincial highway would have a negative impact on business in his township.

While we can appreciate the reeve's motives, we feel his stand is shortsighted. It lacks an overall vision of what is good for all parts of the county. We feel he has exaggerated the impact the trade will have on his part of the county and feel the exchange will make little difference to the amount of traffic using that portion of the present Highway 519.

There are times when the parochial interests of one township must be set aside for the commonweal. This is one of those times. The county council was right to allow the exchange to go ahead.

Two years of success

The Haliburton County Home Support Services passed an important milestone Friday when members of the organization endorsed their first constitution. The action, though significant, held more official than practical import, for the group has been in operation for two years.

The document which the members endorsed mentions a number of purposes for the organization, including "to implement programs to enable the elderly to remain in their own homes for as long as possible." The group, in attempting to be faithful to that mandate, has been at the forefront of such programs as meals on wheels, wheels to meals, phone-a-friend and friendly visiting. Reports offered Friday from all corners of the county indicate these services have indeed been a success.

The home support group owes a great deal to the many volunteers who deliver the meals, act as chauffeurs for the seniors or who simply lend an attentive and caring ear in a fast paced world that seems to have little time for the elderly. The volunteers are the individual who make the programs happen.

Recognition should also be given to the efforts of Doris McCann who has led the organization with enthusiasm and verve. We recall when she appeared before a meeting of the county council almost two years ago to outline her plans and seek the moral and financial support for the home support services. At that time her goals seemed so large, and to more than a few in the room that day, perhaps unreachable.

To her credit the Haliburton County Home Support Services is flourishing. We salute her for her fortitude and sense of commitment. We salute the many members of the organization and the volunteers, all who have made life a little more enjoyable for our senior citizens.

I am writing this letter in the hope that there will be some response. There is a great need in this community, the need is for the children, boys of age groups 5 to 16 years, a time when these boys need guidance the most.

We as Scout and Cub Leaders know this, and try to fill this need. So far we have not had much success in getting volunteers for these posts. Is there no one interested in seeing these boys grow to manhood, our future generation, the men that will someday be leaders in this community? Scouting is a step in aiding these boys on the road to maturity.

I have heard parents say "we don't know anything about how to be a leader". That is a poor excuse, none of us did in the beginning, but we cared enough to learn. "I don't have the time" is another excuse, make the time, they are your future. All children are. Get to know your sons, volunteer and see your future grow.

I as a Cub Leader have found that in giving to a boy a little of your time, gives you a lot of memories.

Wednesday evening, the 16th of September, at the Riverside Inn in Bracebridge, the Ministry of Environment held an informal dinner and discussion with a number of American journalists. Although the Muskoka area press were well represented, our local news groups were absent. It is difficult to know if this was an oversight on the part of the M.O.E. or just a coincidence. In any case their absence was unfortunate.

The purpose of the meeting was to enlist the support of the American press in a program of informing the American public of the seriousness of the acid rain situation.

For thousands of years, every spring and fall has seen the onrush of migration of billions of songbirds across North America. Their journeys have always been hazardous, plagued by high winds or ice storms. But modern man has added a series of new hazards to the migratory obstacle course, in the form of tall buildings, smokestacks, and antennae.

For some reason, the fall of 1981 seems to have been an especially bad season for bird kills. The most dramatic occurred on Labour Day weekend at the Lennox Generating Station near Kingston, where over 10,000 birds were found dead in three nights. Smaller kills have occurred regularly at the office towers of Toronto, where a few hundred birds killed each night is not unusual. A new group called the Toronto City Naturalists have been passing out information on these kills to office workers and the media, in hopes of reducing the carnage.

The major culprit in both cases is bright lights, which dazzle migrating birds that seem to have some instinctive attraction. In the case of the office towers, it is lights carelessly left on by workers or cleaners that cause the problem. In the case of Lennox, it is a controversial floodlighting scheme that does the damage.

The Lennox kills this year are especially annoying, because Ontario Hydro had agreed since 1977 to switch off the floodlights during peak migration season, leaving the red warning lights to ward stray planes. But this summer, the federal Department of Transport decided they would no longer accept this compromise, and began insisting on full lighting at all times. However, after the recent heavy kills, the Lennox floodlights developed a mysterious malfunction, much to the benefit of the birds.

In the longer terms, Hydro is considering the installation of flashing strobe lights on red filters to reduce the attraction to birds. In the meantime, a return to a hard-line approach by Ministry of Transport could result either in more dead birds or a public squabble with Ontario's largest utility.

Is there a future for agriculture here?... the Kirchners have staked their future on it Haliburton County has never been known for its farming. The thin, less than adequate soil cover, rolling terrain and distance from any sizeable market has relegated the production of food for a profit to a low priority in this part of the province.

The early history of this area is littered with the broken dreams and hopes of settlers who were enticed here with promises of agricultural abundance. Most found that once the tree cover was removed, the soil soon lost any fertility it once had. Tumble-down barns and neglected split rail fences stand as mute monuments today of the over-confidence of the past.

That said, there appears to be a new and growing interest in agriculture in the county. It is an interest which recognizes the short-comings of the soil's fertility and terrain.

As well, part of this new outlook includes the realization that there is a market right here for locally produced agricultural commodities and that Haliburton County farmers need not compete against the highly mechanized farms of southern Ontario to garner a share of the local market.

This growing interest in agriculture can be found in the increased activity by the Haliburton County Farmer's Association. The group has an active membership which is interested in expanding the agricultural potential of the area. Part of that effort lies in convincing others that indeed Haliburton County farms can provide some of the agricultural products which must now come from areas to the south.

The association, in its effort to strike a higher profile in the county, held an open house at an area farm several weeks ago. The event, on the Bud and Paula Kirchner's farm on the Irish Line in Stanhope Township, was a success. Over 200 were on hand to see one of the few, if not the only, full time farming operation in the county.

If nothing else, the open house demonstrated to the public that there is a potential for farming in the Highlands. It also pointed out that an approach to the problems of farming is needed which differs in some respects from that practised in other areas of the province.

Not traditional

The Kirchner's farm, Kirchesse, is different in a large number of ways from a traditional farm. Bud and Paula have decided that they will farm without the use of pesticides and herbicides. Instead of turning to chemicals to protect their crops they use the forces of nature.

"It is called bio-dynamic agriculture," Bud said as we walked around his 110 acre property. "We've taken organic farming one step further."

The basic tenet to this approach is that healthy plants and animals are the first line of defense in protecting themselves against disease. "If the plants or animals are robust and growing well, they are less likely to succumb to disease,"

Bud said. Where other farmers might use chemical applications to protect a crop, the Kirchner's use methods such as companion planting, crop rotation, and mixtures made from other plants to ensure a healthy crop.

The farm contains its own organic cycle. "Nothing is wasted here," Bud said, "nothing is thrown out." For example the manure produced by the animals on the farm is used to fertilise the pastures on which the animals graze. If there is a surplus of milk from the 20 head dairy herd, the excess is fed to the pigs. Trimmings from garden produce are composted and returned to enrich the soil. Nothing which is produced on the farm is considered a waste product.

This approach to organic farming is a personal one which Bud admits might not be for everyone. When they bought the farm seven years ago, the land had lain idle for many years. What is now pasture had been grown over in a tangle of underbrush and young trees. The soil had not been farmed for many decades and so the couple were virtually sure their land had not been treated with chemicals. There is little agricultural land in the province today which hasn't.

They made the choice to retain the organic nature of the farm and their methods appear to be succeeding.

Marketing approach

While a part of the success of the farm can be attributed to the growing interest on the part of some consumers for products which have little or no chemicals used during their growth, Bud is also an advocate of the direct marketing approach, which he says other farms in the county could copy to their own success.

The produce of Kirchesse is sold direct to the consumer at the proverbial farm gate. Buyers actually have to come to the front door of the house, but they are buying directly from the person who produced the goods.

The approach means there is no middleman, no transportation costs and no expensive wrapping. "One of the biggest expenses of the food available in stores today," Bud commented, "is the cost of gasoline use to transport the product from the farm to the processor to the wholesaler and on to the retailer. There is little chance that the cost of gasoline is going to come down either." He also pointed out that much of the chemicals used on farms today are petroleum products.

While the Kirchners main marketing area is in milk products, Bud believes a great potential exists for marketing gardening in the county. "People are always looking for freshly grown produce," he commented. "I think they would support a local grower."

According to Kirchner, who has served as the president of the Farmer's Association, an attempt several years ago to establish a farmer's market was a failure. He said the move was blocked by concern over the increased competition to existing stores. The association had suggested the market be located in Haliburton Village.

"It was a major setback," he commented. "And yet, a fresh produce market is usually a drawing card which brings more people to town to shop. In Lindsay the downtown merchants subsidize the farmer's market because it attracts people."

Bud points out that support for agriculture in the county has been lacking from politicians. "We have received little in the way of support for our efforts," he commented. "Farming provides local employment and is an industry which can be totally compatible with the tourist and cottage based economy."

The farm gate marketing approach has certainly worked for the Kirchners, but Bud admits that farming, his style, is not a job for someone looking for an easy life. "We're at it from 4 in the morning to 9 in the evening," he said, "seven days a week".

But, it is obvious that the Kirchners enjoy their chosen profession. "It is a very rewarding way of life," Bud says as he surveys his acreage, "we've made a commitment and are pleased with the results."

With a little help from.....

Bud and Paula Kirchner moved to Haliburton County seven years ago after they purchased a 110 acre abandoned farm at the end of the Irish Line off Highway 530. Bud came from New York State with a chemist's background while Paula is a Toronto native and is also trained in science. Neither had any experience in farming.

"We owe a great deal to our neighbours," Bud admits freely. "Their assistance when we first arrived and continuing interest in what we are doing has helped us tremendously."

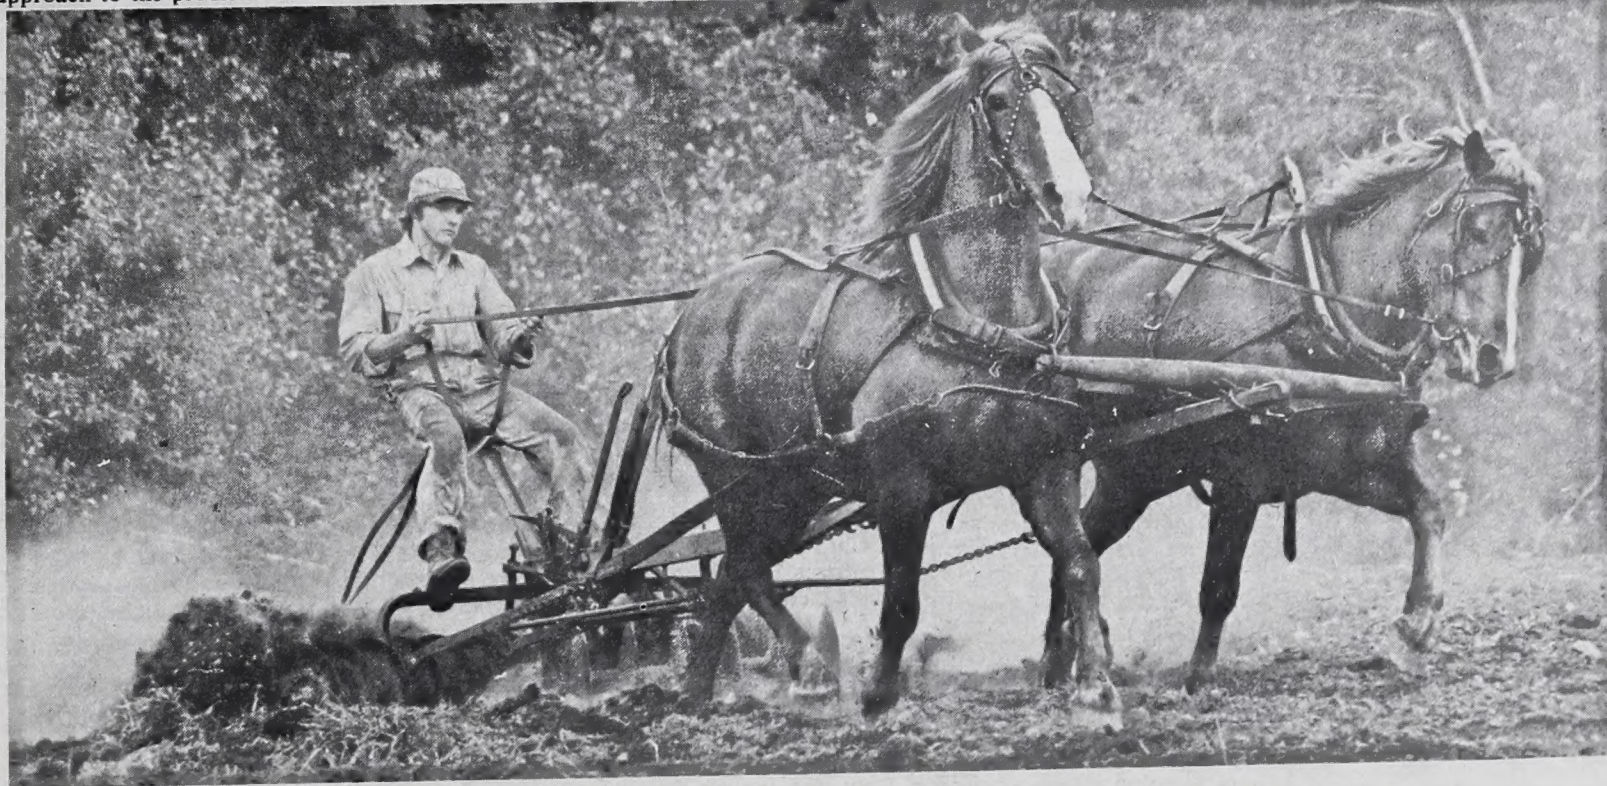

Not only have they learned a great deal from the residents who have been farming here for years, they have earned the admiration of a number of "oldtimers". The Kirchners use mechanized equipment on their farm, but a great deal of the work is carried out with draft horses.

For many of the retired farmers, it is a surprise and treat to see farming carried on the way they remember it. Certainly, with the recent announcements concerning gasoline prices in this country, the continued use of horses can only appear to be a wise move.

Bud also has praise for the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture representative who serves Haliburton County, Carm Hamilton. His area of responsibility includes the two counties of Victoria and Haliburton.

"Carm has always been a source of information and encouragement," Bud comments, "not only for myself, but for the farmers' association as well." He's enthused about the efforts being made in the county and certainly goes out of his way to ensure we get the support the province can provide."

An example of his help, was the assistance he gave to the association in its efforts to bring the subsidized veterinarian program to the county.

Horsepower, in the literal sense, plays an important role on the Kirchner farm. Bud discs a reclaimed field with his team, Jack and Jill.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Haliburton Highlands
THE HEART OF ONTARIO'S COUNTRY

In our recent newsletter we reminded our members that on December 31 of this year the sales tax exemption, that presently applies to accommodation, expires. Unless there is further legislation enacted between now and then we will once again be forced to add 7% sales tax to all accommodation charges at lodges, resorts, motels and hotels.

The industry has attempted, without success, to have this exemption made permanent. It is in fact a tax on tax since these businesses have had to pay tax on their buildings and all the equipment and furnishings in them. It also tends to make us less competitive with our facilities in the U.S. This is very inappropriate at a time when we seem to be making some dent in the tourism deficit between Canada and the U.S. In spite of the devastating impact of the energy costs and the tight economy on most business sectors, the tourism sector has remained relatively healthy - so far. Government should be aware that when you have at least one team that is holding its own in the market place you have to encourage it, not penalize it.

Some members have indicated they will write to their member and the treasurer about this issue and we would recommend that if you are concerned, you do so. Your comments will help back up what we have already said. Our Provincial member for Haliburton is John and as an aid to the Haliburton County Council representatives at the meeting, the writer contacted as many of the journalists as possible and provided them with written and oral data.

Most of the reporters were sympathetic to our situation and promised to carry our message to their readers. However, some of the press and other representatives from the Muskoka area presented very negative and contrary scenarios to these foreign journalists. Indeed one of the press representatives dismissed the problem as relatively unimportant and another acid rain group suggested that their investigations showed that sulfur dioxide was not the real culprit but nitric oxide.

Not only does this fly in the face of all the research work at present in the literature but it is patently nonsense. However it served to confuse the American visitors since it threw doubt on the validity of the main thrust of our argument.

If for no other reason, we need the Haliburton press's presence at all future meetings. We also need a loud and continuing voice from the Haliburton County Council. We also need their voice in determining that the forthcoming liming project uses as much local labor, advice and entrepreneurs as possible.

So, Mr. Editor, please let us see you at the next meeting on September 23rd.

Getting together

At this time of year a lot of time and planning is going into preparing workshops and seminars for various fall and annual meetings. Our Chamber meeting is coming up on October 28. For the first time, it will be an all day meeting. The C.O.T.A. meeting will be at the same location two weeks earlier.

Resorts Ontario is running their fall convention in Orillia the week in between and many of us will be attending that as well.

Successful business people make time to attend these functions because they seldom come home without a new idea or a different way of solving a problem. It has been proven over and over that those that feel they have nothing more to learn about the business they are in are heading for trouble.

In Chamber work these functions become even more important and the results even more significant. Every Chamber manager finds himself in the unique position of being the only one in the community that does what they do. The only time they have a chance to get together with others who share the same problems and concerns is at meetings or conventions of their associations.

Last week our association of Chamber managers (O.C.C.E.) held the annual convention in Kingston. Among other things, we had structured discussions on Group Insurance and Pension Plans for members, running a Better Business Bureau, selling memberships, collecting accounts, communicating with members, and the features and impact of Tel-E-Don. In addition, plans were laid for an emergency postal service that would promote a means of moving important mail throughout Ontario for Chamber members in the event of another postal disruption.

Each time our Chamber is in attendance at a function such as this we find there are better ways of doing things and our organization benefits. Each time you attend one you will find the same thing. You will meet people that have experienced the same problems as you and who are willing to share their solutions with you. You will hear from experts in fields that affect us who can provide us with valuable advice. In addition to all that, and certainly just as important, you will have an opportunity to voice your opinions and make your organization aware of your concerns so that they can act for you and in your interests.

Coming up

On Saturday, September 26 the Minden Library celebrates their official opening. More than just a Library, this attractive log building houses an Art Gallery and common room to be used for crafts and craft classes, Horticulture and Women's Institute meetings and New Horizons activities. The opening takes place at 3:00 p.m. and everyone is welcome. Refreshments will be served following.

Enduro riders await starting instructions Saturday morning during the annual Corduroy Enduro. Motorcyclists from eastern Canada and many points in the United States attended the event which used trails and back roads throughout the Highlands to test the skill and endurance of the riders.

No respite for homeowners

by Bill Scott, M.P.

Prime Minister Trudeau has served notice that those Canadians who are being seriously affected by high interest rates and soaring energy costs cannot expect any relief in the federal government's next budget.

The Prime Minister said that there might be some relief for those who are in "dire circumstances."

It has obviously not occurred to Mr. Trudeau, and to finance minister, Allan MacEachen that any family that is in danger of losing their home because of skyrocketing mortgage rates is certainly in dire circumstances. Those people number in the tens of thousands.

Under the government's new energy program the cost of home heating oil is expected to rise to three or four dollars per gallon in the next four years, and this, coupled with excessively high mortgage rates, will force even more families out of their homes.

I had hoped that the recent much-heralded cabinet meeting, held in an exclusive resort in Ingonish, Nova Scotia, would produce something in the way of relief for Canadians caught in the squeeze between high interest rates, climbing inflation and spiraling energy costs, but the meeting produced absolutely nothing except vague references to general world conditions.

After giving assurances that we could expect some new, "made-in-Canada" economic policies to combat inflation and high interest rates, the prime minister and finance minister have once again restored to blaming economic conditions in the United States for our own economic woes.

Finance minister MacEachen told the press last Thursday after the cabinet meeting that "to attempt to provide an overall blanket from the repercussions from American economic policy is quite impossible."

MacEachen's statement only tends to reinforce the belief in Canada that the present government is out of touch with reality.

What Canadians want, and what they are demanding, is relief from the effects of the government's own economic policies; policies put into place over a year ago to combat inflation.

The program has proved to be a total failure, and it is time for the government to admit that it is not working and come up with policies that will provide both relief and incentives to our people.

Canadians are not losing their homes because of high interest rates in the United States, but because of interest rates in Canada. And, the rate of inflation in Canada is presently running about five points higher than in the U.S.

It should also be pointed out that, while energy costs in Canada are rising at an alarming rate, in the U.S. they are stable, and in some cases are actually declining.

Prime Minister Trudeau and his cabinet are going to have to re-think their position with respect to federal economic policies. The time is long past when they can just sit back and put the blame on the U.S. or on general world conditions. We have a right to expect something of a concrete nature in the way of relief in the upcoming federal budget.

Pete and Bertha Burkitt of Ingoldsby were guests of honour September 19 in Brampton at celebrations marking their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The Burkitts have been residents of Ingoldsby for the past seven years, moving here after living in Brampton. They had cottaged at Ingoldsby prior to retiring there. Pete is a native of Kleinburg while Bertha was born and raised in the Woodbridge area. Her maiden name was Gilbank.

The couple have two daughters, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Pete suggests that the key to a successful marriage is the sharing of responsibility. "Try to make everything 50-50", he commented. Bertha agrees, noting that an extra effort must be made sometimes to get along with your partner if a couple wants a relationship to last the duration.

The couple will mark the anniversary date, October 5, at their home in Ingoldsby with a gathering for friends and neighbours.

Council seeks clarification from HCSA on funding

An explanation of why the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association is reluctant to accept a $500 grant from the county council will be sought in the next month. The matter was discussed at the September 16 meeting of the council when a letter from the HCSA was read.

The letter said the county had stipulated that $500 of the organization's annual grant be spent on trails in the Tory Hill area, the association was unwilling to accept the amount. The HCSA noted that trail building improvements in that area could upwards of $3500 and the club was not willing to make that commitment. It pointed out that it was having trouble maintaining the trails now under its jurisdiction without expanding the network further.

Monmouth Township Reeve Keith Tallman suggested that if HCSA did not want the money the council send the funds to a Cardiff based snowmobile club. "If they (HCSA) don't want responsibility for trails in the eastern portion of the county, we should reconsider the matter at budget time."

Lutterworth Reeve Ron Gambell said the association wanted the money but was unable to do a proper trail expansion in the Tory Hill area with the amount offered.

"They don't have to complete the trail in one year," Tallman stated, "they just don't want to spend the money in the eastern part of the county. We asked them to spend $500 not $3500," he said.

It was suggested that the businesses should undertake greater responsibility for trail maintenance and expansion. Warden Murray Fearrey said "the businesses which benefit from the trade should be told to ante up."

The council will seek clarification from the HCSA as to why the organization refuses to spend the money in the Tory Hill area.

The council was also informed earlier in the meeting that Ministry of Natural Resources funds would be made available for the construction of a snowmobile bridge over the Irondale River.

Plaque unveiling planned for Sunday

The public is invited to an unveiling of an Ontario Heritage Foundation plaque commemorating the Victoria Railway which arrived in Haliburton in 1878. The ceremony will take place at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, September 27 in Head Lake Park, Haliburton and will be followed by a special reception sponsored by the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts at the Rails' End Gallery, formerly the Victoria Station.

Mr. Harold Bannon, Deputy Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al will serve as master of ceremonies. Others participating in the event include Mr. William Kettlewell, a noted historical artist, who will represent the Ontario Heritage Foundation; Mr. Murray Fearrey, Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al and Warden of Haliburton County; Mr. William Scott, M.P. (Victoria-Haliburton); Mr. John Eakins, M.P.P. (Victoria-Haliburton); and Mr. Roy Brohm, Councillor, Municipality of Dysart et al. Mr. Brohm will give a historical background of the Victoria Railway and Councillors, Mr. Gary McKnight and Mr. Sid Cooper will unveil the plaque. The plaque will then be dedicated by the Reverend John Smith from the Haliburton Baptist Church.

Among the guests at the ceremony will be Elizabeth Willmot (Mrs. William Kettlewell), renowned Canadian author of "Meet Me at the Station", a historical account of Ontario's railway stations.

This plaque is one of more than 960 erected around the province by the Ontario Heritage Foundation, an agency of the Ministry of Culture and Recreation charged with the responsibility of keeping Ontario's history alive.

The inscription on the plaque reads:

The Victoria Railway
The opening of the Haliburton district to organized settlement in the early 1860s encouraged promoters to consider the construction of railway lines into the area and to regions further north. One of the few lines actually built was the Victoria Railway. Begun at Lindsay in 1874 under the direction of George Laidlaw, an experienced railway entrepreneur, the line was completed to Kinmount in 1877 and reached the newly-constructed station at Haliburton in 1878. Although the Victoria Railway never extended any further, it became an important regional timber and mineral carrier with a link to other systems at Lindsay. In the mid-1880s it was taken over by the Grand Trunk Railway and later became part of the Canadian National Railway system.

Lutterworth tax penalty jumps to 22.5%

Delinquent taxpayers in Lutterworth Township could be facing a hefty increase in the penalty charged by the municipality as a result of a by-law enacted at last Thursday evening's meeting.

The council has taken advantage of a new act passed this summer by the province which allows a municipality to levy a yearly charge of one and a half percent more than the prime bank interest rate as a penalty on unpaid taxes. The rate is based on the prime interest charge levied by the banks serving the municipality on the day the by-law is enacted.

As a result, Lutterworth taxpayers who have tax arrears will be facing a 22.5% rate on the unpaid amount or a monthly interest rate of 1 7/8%.

Previously the municipalities were allowed to charge up to a maximum of 15% per year on unpaid taxes. As a result, many landowners found it advantageous to leave the taxes unpaid until the threat of a tax sale drew near. In the meantime, with the higher interest rates being offered for deposits at chartered banks, the property owners were earning more on their invested money than the municipality was levying in penalty. This latest provision helps to eliminate that situation.

Lutterworth clerk Wayne Hughes noted however, that the municipality is locked into that rate. "The rate applies until a new by-law is passed or until March 31 of the year following the enactment of the original by-law," Hughes said. He also pointed out that the rate can be reduced by the council through an amendment, but cannot be increased.

The provincial act which allowed the municipalities to charge the increased rate was passed this summer. A resolution endorsed by many provincial municipalities requesting the new method of determining arrears penalties prompted the provincial government to bring in the new regulations.

The new act applies to both unpaid taxes for the current year and tax arrears dating back any number of years. Hughes said the township council decided to just apply the increased penalty to unpaid taxes from 1980 back. A special notification is needed if the higher rates are to be applied to current year taxes.

Redmen season opens with win

The Haliburton Highlands Redmen have started off the 1981 football season on the right note with a convincing 39-0 win over Fenelon Falls High School. The victory came Friday at the high school.

It was an easy win for the Redmen and perhaps not a true test of their ability. The opposition wasn't very strong and never crossed the centre strip during the first half of ball game.

HHSS scored a touchdown on each of the first five occasions the team took control of the ball. Tim Davies hit Mike Hatkoski with two passes for a pair of markers. The first was a 25 yard effort while the second was 40 yards.

The Redmen picked up two more touchdowns from Kevin Shapiera who ran 15 and 30 yard distances to notch the pair. Davies also attempted a field goal but the kick went wide and the team picked up a single.

Into the second quarter, Brent Moxam scored another touchdown for Haliburton, followed by a 25 yard field goal and a 40 yard single to give the home team the 39 point edge.

The visiting offensive team was held in check by the well organized Haliburton defensive unit led by Shane Blakey, Terry Crowe, Rick Choy, Wayne Beaver and Scott Mitchell.

During the second half, coach Gary Brohman gave a number of junior players an opportunity for some on the field experience. While the players were unable to score, the coach reports they performed well on the field.

The next game for the Redmen is this Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. when they meet Brock High School.

Farms need wise money management

— Agricultural report —

Scott and Catharine Harrison (nee Spruit) were married May 23 at St. Peter's Anglican Church, Maple Lake.

The bride looked lovely in a copy of her mother's wedding gown of long white peau de soie and wore a simple halo of artificial flowers. Cate carried a white lace fan decorated with mauve lilacs. The attendants wore street length dresses of delicately coloured beige and blue sheer over peach with matching hats and carried arm bouquets of wild flowers.

The groom wore a pale blue tuxedo while his attendants wore varying shades of dark blue tuxedos.

A reception was held at Wig-A-Mog Inn at noon. In the evening family and friends enjoyed a party with Scott and Cate at the Minden Community Centre.

The young couple travelled to Quebec for their honeymoon and are now residing in Pickering.

"Large capital investments on a farm are more often the result of the farm having been profitable, rather than the cause of it."

This comment was made by Dick Heard on a visit to Victoria County last week. Mr. Heard is the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food Farm Management Specialist for southwestern Ontario, and was in Lindsay to speak at the corn marketing information meeting.

Dick Heard accompanied some of the staff of the Lindsay Agricultural Office on a short tour of farms in Victoria County. It was his first visit to this area in many years. He was obviously impressed by the excellent corn and soybean crops in the area, this year.

Some farms have a lot of capital invested in machinery and facilities. Many of the farmers who have high capital investments have been farming for a number of years, and their farm management abilities have obviously been successful, creating a profitable enterprise on that farm.

However, some young farmers who have only recently started farming and with a low equity in their business, are apparently investing a lot of capital in machinery and facilities as well. Since most of their capital is borrowed, these young farmers face serious problems in being able to generate enough cash to cover the interest charges on this capital, as well as operate their farm and provide a living for their family.

Dick Heard's concern is that these young farmers may believe that expensive machinery and facilities will produce a profitable farm enterprise. He feels a young farmer has to exercise close control on his investments, especially with the current high interest rates on borrowed capital.

It is only after a farm is producing profits, that a young farmer can afford some of the more expensive items which his neighbours who have been farming longer, now have.

Machinery

Efficient farm production requires a reliable supply of new machinery and repair parts as well as good repair service.

The Ontario Farm Machinery Board with the co-operation of the farm machinery industry, has a three-part program to assure the timely and adequate servicing of farm machinery and supply of repair parts to Ontario farmers.

The program, administered by the Ontario Farm Machinery Board, includes: certification of distributors and dealers, information on farm machinery, and mediation by the Board in disputes between farmers, dealers and distributors.

Forty-six distributors and 525 retail dealers have been certified since this voluntary program started a year and a half ago. That's almost 95 per cent of the major farm equipment distributors and dealers.

Distributors and dealers that are certified by the Board conduct business in accordance with standards developed by the Ontario Farm Machinery Board. They offer to purchasers a new equipment warranty that will meet or exceed minimum standards developed by the Board; guaranteed timely repair parts service; sales agreements that meet specific standards; and agree to co-operate with the Board in its efforts to mediate disputes.

About 100 complaints from farmers were handled by the Board last year. Also 24 information meetings were held across the province last winter.

Ontario farmers spend more than $300 million each year on farm machinery. In 1980, repair parts sales alone exceeded $40 million. To farmers with this kind of investment, it is important to know where to turn for solutions to service or parts problems, especially during the busy harvest season.

Farmers with a farm machinery problem can call the Ontario Farm Machinery Board at (519) 824-4120, ext. 2463, or by contacting their County Agricultural Office.

Silo gas

It's silo filling time again in central Ontario, and farmers have to be aware of silo gas.

Silo gas can be deadly. Nine farmers have been killed by silo gas in the past 20 years. Many more farmers have suffered irreparable damage to their lungs.

Low concentrations of nitrogen dioxide (silo gas) cause "farmer's lung". It burns the respiratory tract causing asthma-like symptoms, and eventually victims become so sensitive that they find breathing difficult near any type of silage material.

Gas can be produced within 24 hours after the silo is filled. You can never be sure whether or not the gas is present. It is too tricky to identify. It may appear as a yellow-brown gas at silage level or it may be invisible. It can smell like laundry bleach, but it has to be at lethal concentrations to do this.

Coughing is the first sign the gas is affecting you, and at high concentrations it can kill in seconds.

The best advice is to make sure the silo and feed room are well ventilated and stay away from them for three weeks. If you must work in the silo, use a self-contained breathing apparatus with a lifeline to someone outside the silo.

Running the silo unloader blower for one-half hour will help clear gas from the silo, but the blower must be close to the silo surface to be effective.

Also, be careful in the feed room. Make sure it is well ventilated because silo gas is heavier than air and it flows out of a silo into the feed room.

With the frequent showers we've had lately there could be higher than normal nitrate levels in the corn stalks. This increases the chances of problems with silo gas.

Tour corn plots

Now is the time for corn growers to determine which varieties they want to grow next year.

There are many corn variety plots scattered across the area. Go for a tour this week to see these plots, and to check out for yourself just how well the different varieties are performing.

The place to start your tour is on your own farm. See how the varieties you're growing this year are looking. Then visit the test plots in your neighbourhood, or just visit your neighbours and check out the varieties they are growing.

There are several things to look for:

First check for lodged or broken over plants. After the wind storm last week these should be evident.

Lodging can be caused by corn borers in the stalk. Some varieties are more susceptible to borer damage than others. Lodging can also be caused by rotting in the stalk or roots.

Next check on how well the cobs are husked to the tips. There are many large flocks of blackbirds in the area which love to feed on corn. A variety with bare tips is much more susceptible to blackbird damage.

Next check on the cob itself. How mature is it? It should be well dented and the husks starting to dry a bit now, to be a reasonable variety for grain corn in this area.

How large is the cob? Is it filled to the tip? How many rows of kernels are there? How large or deep are those kernels?

These are a few of the factors you should check out on your corn plot tour. Make notes of each variety you check. Then you can refer to your observations as well as other people's information, when you are deciding which variety of corn to grow next year.

Our regular activities began on Monday morning with Fun and Fitness. We exercised to music and had a game of bowling. Nin Stutt won the game after a three way tie. After lunch a number of ladies went to the craftroom to work on their projects. Our ladies are making some lovely items which will be on sale at the Christmas Bazaar, November 18.

Monday evening several residents went to the auditorium to watch the movies. Of Time, Tombs and Treasures which told us about the legend of Pharoah. The discovery of Pharoah's tomb caused world wide interest. Artistic statues, made from gold, and many numerous treasures were discovered inside the tomb. Because of technical difficulties the other film could not be shown, however, everyone enjoyed the movie about the famous Egyptian king.

Tuesday morning Rev. Douglas Miller of Minden United Church held service in the chapel. Barbara Trociewicz led the singing and Agnes Taylor played the organ during the service.

A game of bingo was held in the auditorium later in the afternoon.

Bill Payne and Eldon Deacon entertained several residents in the lounge, Tuesday evening. Our thanks to these people for a most enjoyable music night.

Wednesday evening members of our auxiliary were here to assist and play cribbage, euchre and crokinole. Games night is certainly becoming an event to look forward to every week.

Thursday afternoon the U.C.W. ladies of Gooderham served a lovely variety of cookies, cake, crackers and cheese at the Tea Party. After everyone ate, we had a sing song with Jean Goff accompanied us on the piano. Our thanks to this group for a very nice afternoon.

Friday afternoon Maron Rose played the piano for our weekly sing song. Bert Harrison played a few lively tunes on the mouth organ as well. Everyone had a good time and it was a nice way to end the week of activities.

At this point, I would like to give a special thanks to Rev. Brubaker who holds service in our chapel every Sunday. Everyone looks forward to his messages of inspiration every week.

Hi! Well the weatherman has thrown everything at us but snow, and the way it feels, that's not too far off. Trees haven't all turned yet and there's still Indian Summer yet to come, so maybe it will warm up a bit yet.

Frank and Anne Dunsford went camping up Huntsville way over the weekend. They didn't get much fishing done, as it was too cold and rainy.

Seniors 55 years of age or older are being asked to join the Minden Senior Curling Club to have fun curling or just to enjoy the friendship found there. It is for one or two afternoons a week, November through March inclusive. So come out and meet new friends.

The Bowrons, Ken, Jeanne and Heather spent Saturday evening in Lindsay.

Steve and Betty Fox visited their parents in Oshawa for the weekend.

Mrs. Bess Sloan, Mrs. Mary Campbell, Mrs. Dailey and Mrs. Lucy Sharpe visited with Major and Mrs. Lewis this past weekend.

Pleased to hear that Mrs. Bedlington is feeling much better after her sharp angina attack last week. If she is feeling up to it, Major and Mrs. Lewis will be taking her home Tuesday to Oakville, where she lives with her other daughter, Mrs. Lucy Sharpe.

The Rev. W.L. and Mrs. Sharpe and family have returned to their home in St. Catharines from their cottage on Gull Lake. The Rev. Sharpe and his boys will be returning to Ridley College.

The Face of Fall
by Alike Barnstone

The face of fall is the baring of maples, the air is tan birds turning south, the ground is mice and animals digging. The winds brings you chapped lips, the frost brings you colds, and the sky itself is chapped. The face of fall is red and brownish gold. Take a sniff of the air and smell the snow.

I am sometimes green and sometimes brown. I am taller than you perhaps, but sometimes I can be the size of a pencil top. I have only one very strong leg, and numerous arms with no hands. What does a 200 pound mouse say?

Here kitty, kitty

What did the duck say when it laid a square egg?

Ouch

Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.

Don't forget these people at Hyland Crest having birthdays in October, Tryphina Jenkins October 3; Ethel MacDonald October 10, Ada Shorter October 13, Berta Dawson October 22 and Tom Harrison October 6 and Robert Krick October 13.

Item of note may be that the Library has received 100 new books (just ask for their location) and there will be 100 more books coming in the Book Exchange September 30th.

Throughout this toilsome world, alas! Once and only once I pass: If a kindness I may show, If a good deed I may do To a suffering fellow man, Let me do it while I can; No delay, for it is plain I shall not pass this way again!

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. F. McPhail, Gordon Cruickshanks and Don Barnett whose funerals were since last week.

These games start at 1:30 and we welcome all newcomers. Come on out and meet the gang.

There was a grand 80th Birthday Party on Sunday at Haliburton in honour of Mrs. Elwood Austin and she enjoyed a visit with everyone, and a chat especially with her friend, Mrs. H. Welch of Minden.

Mary Packard is presently away on a holiday and visiting with family and friends in Scotland.

Wedding bells were ringing on Saturday with congratulations going to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Aggett (nee Brenda Toye).

Weekend guests with Mrs. Ern Hewitt were sons Fred of Scarborough, Colin of Toronto and Neil of Carleton Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cowan of Phelpsston and Myrtle Carpenter visited with Mrs. John Hewitt and other relatives.

Fun for Seniors (55 and older), join the Minden Senior Curling Club (ladies and gentlemen). You may curl (pay as you play) or just enjoy the friendship of others, one or two afternoons a week, November to March inclusive.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Besner of Hamilton spent the weekend with relatives.

It wouldn't be Fall without sodden leaves And the drip of rain in the wooden eaves, Purple asters to nod and fold Wide old gardens and fields of gold; The feel in your veins of changing things, The sound in the night of hurrying wings, Scarlet vines on the garden wall— Had we not these ... it wouldn't be Fall.

Coming events are St. Paul's Thrift Shop open Friday 1:30 - 4:00. Card Party at Orange Lodge Hall on Monday, September 28 with crib and euchre; Martha Group of U.C.W. will meet at their church hall September 30 at 7:30 p.m. United Church Rally Day is during morning service September 27.

The town was busy on the weekend, as people were shopping with most of the stores and students having a holiday on Monday, 21st. Cooler fall weather, had slight frost which helps the colours along but not too much showing as yet. Many duck hunters here in our area as you could certainly hear the gun shots. Cheerio until next time.

Minden W.I.

The Minden Women's Institute September 16 meeting was held in the "Common Room" of the new Library Cultural Building with Mrs. Lyman Cox vice-president in charge. After the opening, the usual reports were given. Twenty-two members and three guests were present and coffee mugs were given to the Centre by these. The card convener Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 54 cards since the June meeting. The collections for card fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken. Correspondence was read, including one letter concerning Area Convention in November and one about District Craft Day October 28.

Plans were completed for the Bus Trip to Orillia September 25 and Mrs. Kernohan sold some tickets to members.

Mrs. H. Stevens had an interesting paper on "Her honour the Mayor" with reference to Hazel McCallion and the situation last September at Mississauga. She also made mention of the woman's role in city and municipal governments. Economies today make the woman's place in society a different one, and she takes her place in the work force by necessity.

Mrs. Bob Hughes thanked us for all our good wishes when she was in hospital. An invitation was given to all to attend the Official Opening of this building on Saturday, September 26 at 3:00 p.m.

Members took tickets to sell on the afghan and pillow to be drawn at the next meeting. This will be October 21 at 2:00 p.m. at this same location with all ladies welcome.

Meeting closed with God Save The Queen and W.I. Grace and all enjoyed the delicious lunch served by the ladies. Some of the ladies also had a look through the Library section and took some books home to read.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all those who came to our need during the recent death of Max. A special thanks to all those who brought food, sent flowers or made contributions to the heart fund. We would also like to mention how well all the arrangements and details were handled by Mr. and Mrs. Enke and staff of the Gordon Monk Funeral Home. In the absence of Gord and Donna, they did a fine job. A special thanks also to Rev. John Smith for a touching service and Mrs. Smith who accompanied on the piano. The ladies of the West Guilford Community Centre saved us a great deal of worry and work by preparing a lovely luncheon following the funeral service. We would like to thank each and everyone who donated to or served at that luncheon. And to all the family and friends who sent cards, phoned or were simply there, again thank you for caring. Sincerely, Lois Boice and family. 9D

We wish to thank all our family, relatives, friends and neighbours who took part in making our 25th Wedding Anniversary a happy event. The dance was a wonderful surprise that will never be forgotten, as well as seeing our son from Dryden who made a special trip down to be with us for this celebration. Thank you for everything. Oswald and Maxine
